This document when signed is a formal agreement between us for therapeutic services. You have the right and the responsibility to choose your provider and treatment modality that best suits your needs. Please ask if you have any questions or concerns pertaining to this document or treatment.

ABOUT ME (EDUCATION/TRAINING & PHILOSOPHY OF TREATMENT)

I hold a master's degree in Marriage and Family Therapy from Pacific Lutheran University and have been trained to work with individuals, couples and families. Overall, I practice from a general systems perspective incorporating a systemic approach, helping clients look at all aspects of their life-current and past-to help identify what influences may be contributing to current issues. Experiences, family patterns, and beliefs, help shape who we are and how we view the world. When possible I prefer to work with the entire family. At times people may experience an event or a significant life change and individual therapy may be preferred. I aim to help clients gain insight and discover broken communication and/or behavior patterns so we can work together on improving relationships and building positive interactional patterns and communication. I further aim to help families/couples/individuals discover the various influences that may be impacting their lives. Additionally, I draw heavily from Narrative Therapy and Solution Focus techniques to help clients envision the life they want and realize what steps they want to take to live the life they wanted. For couples work, I am primarily utilizing Emotional Focus Therapy and Gottman methods.

CLIENTS RIGHTS/RESPONSIBILITY/CONFIDENTIALITY

You have the right to non-discriminatory treatment and to be treated with dignity. You have the right to have your records protected. Furthermore, you have the right to obtain a copy of your records. I will need a written request and a fee will be charged for copies. If the clients are seen as a couple or a family, no information will be released without the written consent of all parties. Exceptions to the right to obtain your record include the therapist concluding that the release may cause harm to you or someone else, or if it is legally advisable. You also have the right to confidentiality and the right to request restrictions on disclosures of your protected health information- with exceptions as noted in limits to confidentiality (Appendix A.) With written authorization, you have the right to authorize the release of your protected health information and the right to rescind your release of protected health information. (To withdraw your consent you need to have it in writing and understand that information already disclosed cannot be undone or recovered.) As a client you have the right to refuse treatment, and obtain referrals to other therapists and/or agencies. You have the right to discuss complaints with me or with anyone of your choosing, including other therapist. You have the right to a copy of this informed consent.

I encourage you, and it is your responsibility, to ask questions when you have concerns, be honest, follow the treatment plan, attend therapy appointments, and inform me of any changes (contact information, or information that would impact you and our therapeutic process such as employment, significant relationships, etc.) It is your responsibility to make payments prior to therapy session.

BENEFITS AND RISKS

Individual, couple, and family therapy have all been shown to have benefits for many people. However, there can be risks associated with therapy. Growing, making self-discoveries and changes is a process and can cause discomfort and experience unexpected feelings such as frustration and guilt. During the therapeutic process clients may experience setbacks which may be inevitable.

Some of the possible benefits of therapy are increased satisfaction with relationships, resolution of issues, and a greater understanding of self, relationships, and cultural influences. Other possible benefits may be reduced stress and anxiety. Furthermore, an individual, couple, or family, may develop greater coping skills and a clearer sense of their values and goals.

PROPOSED COURSE OF TREATMENT

The first session is 80 minutes to complete and review intake forms and consent forms as well as to allow adequate time to go over concerns. Sessions are typically once a week for 50 minutes. Typically there are 8-12 sessions for treatment, but this may vary greatly depending on the unique needs of the client(s). The first few sessions, as we get to know each other, are intended to explore the issues that have brought you into therapy and for me to hear and understand each person's perspective.

Together we will explore what goal(s) best meet your needs and discuss a treatment plan for how your goals can best be achieved. It is your right to request changes or revisions to your goals. We will regularly evaluate progress that is made, and make sure the goals are still appropriate and allow for revisions in a collaborative effort. There are various techniques I may use during therapy to include communication skill building techniques, genograms (looking at family history), and clinical assessments. It may also be helpful to incorporate other relevant people into the therapeutic process to help support you/your family in reaching set goals. It is important to note that no one would be contacted nor would information be disclosed without your written permission.

FEES/INSURANCE

Payment is due at time of session. My standard fee for therapy is $110.00 per 50 minute session. The first session (which is 80 minutes) is $135.00. Subsequent 80 minute sessions are $150.00. I am out of network with insurance companies and I do not file for insurance. I can provide you with a receipt and your health plan may provide reimbursement. Please check with your insurance company regarding coverage and filing procedures. Payment may be made by cash, check, Visa, or MasterCard. If cancellations are necessary please provide-at minimum-a 24 hour notice. There is a $50.00 cancellation fee for appointments cancelled less the 24 hours. There is a $100.00 fee for a 'no show' to an appointment. Payment will be charged same day to your credit card on file. The fee for a written check with non-sufficient funds is $30.00. On a limited basis I offer a reduced fee for services. For further information please ask prior to services. If there is a matter where you need a brief/crisis consultation with me, you may call to discuss the issue. Should the call exceed 10 minutes or calls become frequent, the fee charged is a proportionate amount of your typical session fee.

COURT ISSUES

Court Appearances associated with custody issues and/or other legal matters are billed at $150.00 per hour. In the case of court appearances, the clock starts from the time the therapist leaves the office until the court, judges, or attorneys dismiss them and they return to the office. Telephone calls that last more than 10 minutes associated with legal issues will be billed as regular therapy hours.

COMPLAINTS:

Unprofessional conduct can be defined under the revised code of Washington State (RCW 18.130.180) If you feel you have been discriminated against or otherwise treated unethically or unprofessionally you may contact the Washington State Department of Health, PO BOX 47869, Olympia, WA 98504-7869, (360) 236-4700.

COLLABORATIVE SHARING

At times I meet with consultation groups so that we might gain a better understanding of how we can work with clients more effectively. If I discuss my cases with my professional colleagues all names and unique identifying information will remain concealed. The other professionals with whom I work with are bound to the same standards of confidentially and ethics as I am.

Your signature acknowledges that you have agreed to treatment and have read and understood the information in this informed consent. It also acknowledges that you have received the limits of confidentiality form.

LIMITS OF CONFIDENTIALITY APPENDIX A

All content of therapy sessions are confidential. Written consent is required for the client's verbal information and/or written records to be shared. However, listed below are the following legal and/or ethical exceptions to confidentiality:

ABUSE OF CHILDREN If a client states or suggests they are abusing or neglecting a child, or a mental health provider has reasonable cause to believe a child has been abused or neglected or had been previously abused a mental health provider is mandated by law to report this information to the proper legal authorities and/or department.

VULNERABLE ADULTS If a client states or suggest that they have abandoned, abused, financially exploited or neglected a vulnerable adult a mental health provider is mandated by law to report to proper legal authorities and/or department.

HARM TO SELF If there is reasonable cause to believe and/or a client states or suggests they have a plan or intend to commit suicide, the mental health care provider is legally required to notify the proper legal authorities and make reasonable attempts to notify the family of the client.

DUTY TO WARN AND PROTECT If there is reasonable cause to believe and/or a client discloses they plan or have intentions to harm another person, a mental health provider has an ethical duty to warn the intended victim, notify the proper legal authorities, and make reasonable attempts to notify the family of the client.

SUBPOENA/COURT ORDER If a mental health provider is subpoenaed or court ordered, information and/or records will be released that are related to a report or a complaint. Mental health provider will make reasonable attempts to notify client. If client is contesting the subpoena it is the client's responsibility to properly inform me of the contest.

PRIVILEGE WAIVED If any Washington-state agency that oversees my licensure subpoenas me as part of an investigation, I am required to comply and may be asked to disclose your personal information. If legal actions are brought against a mental health provider by a client the privilege of confidentiality is null and void.

MINORS Parent/legal guardians hold the privilege of confidentiality when the child is under age 13. Information obtained in therapy from a minor under age 13 may be shared with patents/legal guardians.

INSURANCE COMPANIES/BILLING Insurance companies may need dates of treatment and diagnoses for reimbursement. Complete confidentiality cannot be assured when using insurance.

I have read the above and fully understand the limits of confidentiality.
